Invitation to Silence and Prayer

As we share these moments of silence, we are invited to write the prayers of our hearts for our lives and the life of our world on the slips of paper in our programs. If you are online, please share your prayers by emailing prayers@fccla.org.

Then, as the music begins, we are invited to come forward to share our prayers here in the bowl, and to light candles signifying our prayers, for ourselves, those we love and hold dear - and for the life of the world.

Let us now be in silence, together.

Inside The Music- Brandon Harris

Today, as we reflect on the theme of Sacred Earth, we are invited to consider our relationship with the Earth, our responsibility to one another, and the holiness that surrounds us.

We begin with Täht and Valjayaga's I Am the Earth, a musical expression of our personal connection to the ground beneath our feet. When we recognize the Earth as an extension of ourselves, we are called to care for it with the same tenderness, respect, and love we would offer our own bodies. In embracing this shared responsibility, our individual acts of care become a collective expression of reverence for the sacred world we have been given.

Laude presents Stacey V. Gibbs' arrangement of Gather at the River, a song that evokes the biblical imagery of the River of Life. Rivers sustain the Earth, nourish its inhabitants, and remind us of the life-giving resources upon which our existence depends. As we gather at the river in song, we are invited to reflect on the ways these sacred waters sustain not only our physical lives but also our spiritual journeys through a world that is both beautiful and complex.

Rollo Dilworth's When Our Dreams Take Flight, inspired by Paul Laurence Dunbar's poem "Dreams," explores the fragile yet enduring nature of our hopes and ambitions. Through vivid images drawn from the natural world, including rosy clouds and withering flowers, Dunbar reflects on the vulnerability of dreams and the sorrow that can accompany their loss. Dilworth's warm, accessible Gospel harmonies offer a message of hope: when we come together in community, we can encourage one another, nurture our aspirations, and help one another's dreams take flight.

Finally, the Cathedral Choir offers an excerpt from Gibbs' Beulah Land, a powerful expression of the longing for a promised land of freedom, peace, and joy. For some, this land represents the heavenly home toward which we journey; for others, it inspires a vision of liberation and wholeness that we can begin to realize here on Earth. Through our commitment to justice, our care for creation, and our love for one another, we participate in making this sacred ground a place where freedom and joy can flourish.

As we listen, may the music awaken us to the holiness of the Earth beneath our feet. Like Moses before the burning bush, may we pause in reverence, recognize the divine presence in the world around us, and remember that this sacred ground is both a gift to cherish and a responsibility to uphold.
